Index to Volume Twelve (1995)

Abrams, Nathan D., 'Inhibited but not "crowded out"': The Strange Fate of Soccer in the United States 3.1

Arbena, Joseph, Nationalism and Sport in Latin America, 1850–1990: The Paradox of Promoting and Performing 'European' Sports 2.220.

Archetti, Eduardo P., In Search of National Identity: Argentinian Football and Europe 2.201

Bailey, Steve, Permission to Play: Education for Recreation and Distinction at Winchester College, 1382–1680 1.1

Baker, N., The Amateur Ideal in a Society of Equality: Change and Continuity in Post-Second World War British Sport, 1945–48 1.99

Becker, Frank, Sportsmen in the Machine World: Models for Modernization in Weimar Germany 1.153

Booth, Douglas, United Sport: A United Hegemony in South Africa? 3.105

Bradley, J. M., Football in Scotland: A History of Political and Ethnic Identity 1.81

Chehabi, H. E., Sport and Politics in Iran: The Legend of Gholamreza Takhti 3.48

Collins, Tony, 'Noa Mutton, Noa Laaking': The Origins of Payment for Play in Rugby Football 1.33

Croucher, John S., Now History Repeats itself in the US Baseball World Series 1.169

Crowther, Nigel B., Team Sports in Ancient Greece: Some Observations 1.127

Dewey, Clive, 'Socratic Teachers': The Opposition to the Cult of Athletics at Eton, 1870–1914. Part I – The Survival of a Sub-culture 1.51

Dewey, Clive, 'Socratic Teachers': The Opposition to the Cult of Athletics at Eton, 1870–1914. Part II – The Counter-attack 3.18

Eichberg, Henning, Nationalism and the Culture of the Body: The Politicization of 'Popular' Gymnastics in Nineteenth-century Denmark 2.108

Faure, Jean-Michel, Forging a French Fighting Spirit: The Nation, Sport, Violence and War 2.75

Giatsis, Sotiris G., The Massacre in the Riot of Nika in the Great Hippodrome of Constantinople in 532 AD 3.141

Goksøyr, Matti, Phases and Functions of Nationalism: Norway's Utilization of International Sport in the Late Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries 2.125

Hofmann, Annette R., The Turners' Loyalty for their New Home Country: Their Engagement in the American Civil War 3.153

Holt, Richard, Contrasting Nationalisms: Sport, Militarism and the Unitary State in Britain and France before 1914 2.39

Hong, Fan and J. A. Mangan, 'Enlightenment' Aspirations in an Oriental Setting: Female Emancipation and Exercise in Early Twentieth-century China 3.80

Krüger, Arnd, 'Buying Victories is Positively Degrading': European Origins of Government Pursuit of National Prestige through Sport 2.183

Mangan, J. A., Duty unto Death: English Masculinity and Militarism in the Age of the New Imperialism 2.1

Mangan, J. A. and Fan Hong, Occident and Orient: The Liberation of the Female Body and the Reconstruction of Femininity in the West and East 3.180

Martin, Scott C., Don Quixote and Leatherstocking: Hunting, Class and Masculinity in the American South, 1800–40 3.61

Moorhouse, H. F., One State, Several Countries: Soccer and Nationality in a 'United' Kingdom 2.55

Myerscough, Keith, The Game with No Name: The Invention of Basketball 1.137

Sörlin, Sverker, Swedishness, Nature and Skiing: A Nationalism of Nature 2.147

Terret, Thierry, Professional Swimming in England before the Triumph of Amateurism, 1837–75 1.18

Tolleneer, Jan, The Dual Meaning of 'Fatherland' and Catholic Gymnasts in Belgium, 1882–1914 2.94

Tranter, N. L., The Cappielow Riot and the Composition and Behaviour of Soccer Crowds in Late Victorian Scotland 3.125

Weiler, Ingomar, Joseph-François Lafitau (1681–1746) and the Beginning of Comparative Sport History: Some Notes on Ethnography and Ancient History 3.169

Windhausen, John D. and Irina V. Tsypkina, National Identity and the Emergence of the Sports Movement in Imperial Russia 2.164

Book Reviews 1.173, 3.185